FYI

There are many students on this call, all at different points in their publishing journey. We receive many questions and do our best to choose the ones that are applicable and helpful to the majority of attendees on this call.
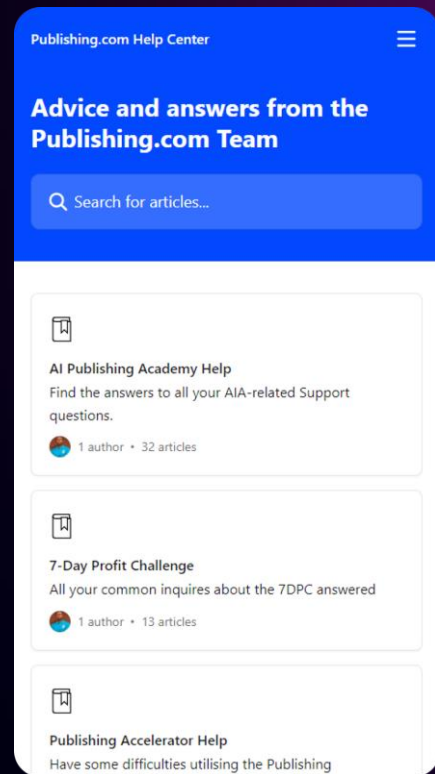

We would rather spend more time going deep into a good question rather than rushing from one question to the next. Therefore, we will pick and choose the best questions.

 Hi coaches. Can we include famous brands eg 'for dummies' in our proof of concept research or do we have to ignore that (even if under 150 reviews at the moment)? Thanks so much

Question on plagiarism checker. Went to grammmarly and submited text. Said it was free. It echoed back my text and then prompted to join for $30. What is better way to check for this, please. Thanks

Mary

Where can I find a sample request for review that is to go at the end of the book; or in the middle.

Rendal

When using facebook paid method for reviews, you said you can get reviews forever. How if you're only given a total of 5 days to promo for free?

Rendal

"I used a professional to edit and proofread my manuscript. Suggestions were made to add the source. How do I find and add the source for something they suggested?

Paul

When doing topic research, are we to disregard ""workbooks"" when confirming proof of concept?

Ryan

"1. I previously published a book with a publisher. My contract has run out and I'd like to make some edits and give it the best shot at making something. It didn't do much while with the publisher, so I'd like to see what I need to tweak if anything to get it to. It was called ""Selling Well: The 5 Relationships that Experts, Authors & Coaches Use to Sell 1,000 Books in 21 Days"" It's about book marketing. I already realize the title is devoid of anything search friendly. I also did a little POC research on things like ""Book Marketing,"" ""Author Marketing,"" ""Sell Books"" etc and they all seem to be getting mixed up with ""marketing book"" ""sales books"" and don't pass the POC test. Any suggestions? The book came out of a book marketing summit I hosted and I took the attendees strategies and organized them into the book. I had some of the most publicly visible people at the time in the space, so it was a really great resource. I'd hate to leave it unpublished.

2. I was doing some other POC research based on the AIA training and came across a viable topic under the Hobbies Niche. I'd love to go forward with it, but realize that most of these are low content books. I have a few ideas to make it work in audiobook format, but would a low content book this pass the POC test? I really think I could improve upon what's out there."

Hi. I apologize. My busy schedule does not allow me to join the q&a calls just now and I do not really have a question for the forum but I really wanted to say hello and thank you. I am grateful for the opportunity. I could ask how everybody is doing so I am not abusing the service and I will watch the q&a later. I hope you all are fine. Have a stupendous day.

"Hi Coaches, running plagiarism check in Grammarly (Yep, Stoicism for Modern Life), please comment on relevance. Example: Line in the book containing the word 'Lessons"" appeared in a post ""2 Lessons I've Learned about Happiness from Keeping a Journal"". My book does not have the phrase 'Lessons I've Learned'. Grammarly cites 1% of this text matches. (I do reference Journalling in other sections but not as 'lessons'. Please talk about how we should be looking at this. I thought there needed to be an exact match of phrase or more. I there a threshold below which there is no worry? Thanks for insight.

Once I clear this hurdle it will be on to PS for formatting. I want to push to KDP before leaving on vacation on 7th and will start FB Group marketing on 6/1 when I return. Really appreciate all your patience these many weeks. Next one will be simpler. Promise.

FYI, here's the line that triggered it ""As you become more stoic in outlook, in stepping outside even the air seems different, filled with the subtle whispers of life's most profound lessons. Nature, in its boundless wisdom, serves as a silent mentor, teaching us the virtues of acceptance, the reality of impermanence, and the inherent beauty found in simplicity.'."

"To append to my other question...

Publishing.ai is pushing me towards a 30k book on the POC approved topic that showcases low content guided journals. Would it be worth it to have a guide with the journal at the back? That would really increase the page count quite a bit. Alternatively, the guided journal could be a companion to the guide and people could buy them together? Help me Publishing.com team, you're my only hope. ;)" or

Subtitle 2: Easily Cultivate, Nurture & Design a Flowering Sanctuary in any small area using pots""

Thank you so much!"

"Hello coaches,

I have been tweaking my title / subtitle which seems like forever now based on all the coaches feedback. I am hoping this one hits the mark!! I mentally can't go forward until I have approval so here it is:

Title: English Cottage Container Gardening for Small Spaces

Subtitle: Easily Cultivate, Design, and Tend a Charming Flower-Filled Sanctuary using Pots.

May I have your opinions please?

Thank you & have a wonderful day full of blessings!! "

What is the Standard Operating Procedure after you have generated a manuscript? Do you proofread and edit it right there in the publishing.ai UI? and then hit continue? Even if its going to take hours or days?

AI PUBLISHING ACADEMY

Edward

After we have the manuscript generated is it possible to redo it if we realize we made a big mistake on the writing style? Alternatively , is there a way we could just run it through again and change the writing style? (example we needed formal serious, but we selected informal humorous) ? If not, oh well.... just thought I would ask
