FYI

There are many students on this call, all at different points in their publishing journey. We receive many questions and do our best to choose the ones that are applicable and helpful to the majority of attendees on this call.

We would rather spend more time going deep into a good question rather than rushing from one question to the next. Therefore, we will pick and choose the best questions.

"In my first chapter of 2,644 words, I ran the plagiarism subroutine on Grammarly Premium, and it came up with 1% of my text matching this source.""...right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness...""

Starkey, C. (2018). A Focus On: Buddhism. Community Practitioner, 91(6), 25.

How do I deal with it? Do I reference that source? Upon further research, I found that she got it from something called the ""The Buddha's Words"", from Saṁyutta Nikāya38. Jambukhādakasaṁyutta: With Jambukhādaka SN38.14: A Question About Suffering who got it from Pali texts which says, There is no copyright on these Pali texts."

I've started using AI for inspiration on various areas of my book. What do you recommend (apps/sites) to use to run the work through for Amazon not to detect/reject AI content?

Estelle

"If you add pages to your book after publishing (for instance, a lead magnet, a 'more from this author' section), will you have to get the full cover redesigned for the print version as it is based on the total number of pages? Or is there a few pages window?

If the number of pages is fixed, is it worth adding a few blank pages for later use, or is it weird?

And can I take this opportunity to say a huge thank you? I can never attend live, but I catch your Q&A over the weekend without fail, and I have learned so much."

I am doing Facebook ads. I followed the course just like it said except I have a daily budget of 10 dollars. For the past two days I've spent a total of 9.70 on ads and only have four people interested. Any tips or tricks? I am not sure what I am doing wrong and why my ads aren't working as intended.

Isaiah

I am doing the Facebook review method and I have tried reaching out to the admin to post in their groups and got no response. I tried to post my post anyway like the course says to do, but with every group I joined from 52k people in them to 1k people all have restrictions and give me a notification saying post is sent to admin for approval. None of my post have been posted in the groups, and i'm not sure what I should do or other methods I should take?
