FYI

There are many students on this call, all at different points in their publishing journey. We receive many questions and do our best to choose the ones that are applicable and helpful to the majority of attendees on this call.

We would rather spend more time going deep into a good question rather than rushing from one question to the next. Therefore, we will pick and choose the best questions.

I have an existing KDP account for an academic book I wrote derived from my existing Amazon account. Can I use this account for my AIA books under a pen name? If so, how do I establish that pen name and link it to that account. (I am just starting so bear with me)

Dear Coaches, I have been following the program, getting it all done step by step and staying highly motivated. Today, while looking through the Facebook groups I joined to support my future book, which is still in the outline phase by the way, I saw a review request post from one of our AIA students. This person had an AMAZING looking cover and it was almost exactly what I have been working on for 2 weeks. I have not felt ANY scarcity mindset up until now and feel like someone just punched me in my gut. With all of the experienced AIA employees AND experienced students all looking through the same topics trying to find a good sub niche I have concerns about my chances as a beginner and market saturation.

Can someone please speak honestly about my concerns ?

Thank you, I am going to go meditate and visualize my success and see if I can convince my body that it is all ok.

Hello,

My topic is Christian Morning Motivation.

My 30k book has the following chapters:

"Choosing Joy: Breaking Free from Negativity"

"Unleashing Courage: Overcoming Fear and Taking Bold Action"

"The Art of Love: Cultivating Compassion and Connection"

"Breaking Free from Anxiety: Tips and Tools for Finding Calm in Chaos"

Amy Hunter - 2 of 2

"The Healing Power of Forgiveness: Letting Go and Moving Forward"

"Embracing Gratitude: Finding Contentment in God's Goodness"

"The Gift of Generosity: Living in the Abundance of God's Love"

The title I like is Embrace the Day: Christian Morning Motivation for Conquering Negativity and Finding Peace in the Chaos

Does the topic have to be the main title or can it be in the subtitle to be easily found on Amazon?

I rarely used Facebook; how do I get onto the Facebook group associated with AIA?

Michelle

Hey coaches, thanks for the feedback last week. I made some major changes to my title and was hoping to get some more feedback! I tried posting on the FB group but didn't get much help.

Title: Navigating Postpartum Depression and Anxiety

Subtitle: Evidence-Based and Practical Strategies to Help New Moms Recognize Symptoms, Balance Emotions, and Cultivate Positive Thinking

Some background:

- It is 173 Characters long including spaces.
- POC is Postpartum Depression and Anxiety.
- Keywords were difficult to find as many book titles were too different/all over the place as discussed last week but the commonalities, I found were "balance/manage emotions", "reduce negative thinking/increase positive thinking", and "calm stress"
- I also added new moms as it sounded funny without it despite not being a keyword

I got stucked in my one book project for a year, I don't how to proceed.

I got the book title,table of contents, book cover design, and many possible contents. I have several research materials and put many of them in my book project, that made me confused and stucked.

I am anxious of plagiarism I might be guilty of due to the materials I copied from my source materials. I need your help.

I just published my e book for the 7dpc but I am having such a hard time with the paperback.

I upload the manuscript and it says successful. Then I upload the cover and it also says successful. Then I go to preview it and I have errors in both fields and can't move on.

Coaches,

I have never been particularly interested in social media. However, since joining this publishing business, I've come to realize that Facebook is a crucial marketing tool for promoting books.

About a month ago, I reluctantly joined Facebook, but I must admit that my level of activity has been quite minimal. While I've joined several communities, I find myself struggling to engage as much as I should. I don't consider myself antisocial, but I must confess that I'm not naturally inclined to be a proficient social media user.

Now, I have a couple of questions that I hope you can help me with:

1. Would it be viable to rely on Facebook ads to recruit reviewers rather than trying to do so through community activities? I understand that it may involve some budget allocation, but I'm wondering if it could compensate for my lack of activity.
2. I'm also seeking suggestions on how to change my perspective about Facebook and motivate myself to become more active. I've been advised to "Like" comments by others, but I'd greatly appreciate any additional advice or strategies you might have.

Thanks a lot in advance.

My success coach is not working out. I would like to change to another success coach. I don't want to be public about the problems I've had so far because I don't want to call anyone out. I'd like to change to a new coach, and I am paying for having a successful outcome. I feel a new coach would help me be successful.

I am stuck at how to use Chat GPT and the Chrome extension. I mean, literally, I have tried to use them like instructed but I get stuck every time. I want to select a topic and start a book but these tools are essential to that process. Is there a way to get help with this?
