OPEN Q&A

Submit your questions live on the call in the Zoom Q&A field. We will pick and choose the best the questions to answer.

The logo consists of the letters 'FYI' in a bold, white, sans-serif font, centered on a blue rectangular background that has a slightly distressed or torn-edge appearance.

There are many students on this call, all at different points in their publishing journey. We receive many questions and do our best to choose the ones that are applicable and helpful to the majority of attendees on this call.

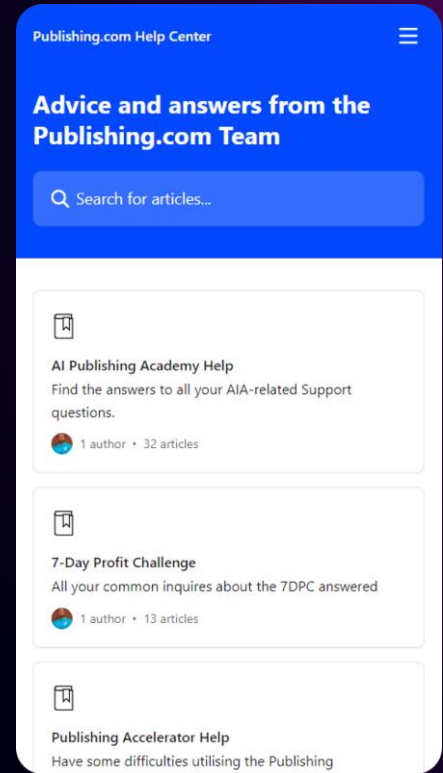

We would rather spend more time going deep into a good question rather than rushing from one question to the next. Therefore, we will pick and choose the best questions.

My first book was to be the first in a series on my topic based on a course. The first book will be the material in the first module of my course that I am writing. Do I still need to finish a book for the challenge before starting the course? I want to qualify for the $1,000 cash back and the rules said it couldn't be the book for the challenge. So, start over and do the sample book first and then start writing the one in my series?

Nancy

Hi there I want to put the full amount of the course before 3 am. I've paid $999 but want to put the rest on my husbands card so just want to make sure that it's ok. Please let me know.

Yaz

Hi im so bummed. My book was published as a summary of my book on another site "booktopia" which apparently was authorized by "kobo writing life" as a "summary" of my book. Any help with how to approach this besides email is appreciate? I have a copyright.

Also on another book I got this feedback on a review. Should I remove my review pages? I have two one half way through and one at the end as done in the modules but now im mortified and wish I did a pen name. Here is the review for reference.

"The information seems solid and the recipes so far are fine. My biggest issue is that the book devoted 2 pages to beg for a positive review on Amazon!!! This seems sketchy at best and I feel the practice has no place in a legitimate book."

I Can I upload pictures of products for sale from Amazon sales page items into my book? How about uploading sales images from other commercial stores into my book?

I've posted my first project on Urban Writers five days ago. I invited 12 people on the project and so far only one requested. I got her to work on a sample and so far am not satisfied but at the same time no one else seems to be interested in my project. What can I do to get quality writers interested in this project? Is the rate of response normal or am I doing something wrong?

how important is it to choose a topic for your first book. Once you choose this topic does that mean all of your books you write have to be within this same topic?

As I go through the lessons there seems to be a lot of Chat. GPT prompts almost in every step. Is there a way you could create a chat GPT prompt outline where you just add them all to one document in order? or even a checklist and you can just go through it and check it off for each book you publish.

That being said. Is there a checklist of all the steps required to create a book?

I know at the beginning of each module there is a checklist of things to do but would be cool to have a guide people can checkoff as they go for each book they write. and the chat GPT stuff could be in there

Question#1: I would like to include two quotes that I found on the internet in my book pages. In order to include them, how should I request permission from the authors or publishers? I attempted contacting the first author through Facebook Messenger, but she hasn't responded. Is it acceptable to include the quotes without permission? These quotes are intended for my dedication page, as they capture the emotions of my book.

These are the two quotes I want to use for my Book Dedication page;

"Mom, you are the most beautiful memory I kept locked inside my heart." - Narin Grewal.

"Being a mother is learning about strengths you didn't know you had." - Linda Wooten.

Please provide guidance. Thank you.

Question # 2: I submitted the form for AIA's stamp of approval; I attached my manuscript and book cover. It's been approximately a week now, but I haven't received any communication regarding the approval of my book or manuscript.

Do I need to submit it again?

Thank you for all your help.

Is it possible to create a single brand-author page to showcase all my books? I plan to establish a brand page under "Primus Publications," and feature all my works, including those written under other pen names. This way, on Amazon every book will show 2 authors, Primus Publications + one other pen name. The idea is to consolidate all books under the Primus Publications brand and not create author pages of pennames. However, the focus is on building the brand page for Primus Publications, without a separate page for the other pen name author. This way, all my books will be easily accessible and visible on the brand page, streamlining the presentation and recognition of my literary works. I want it to look like a company that has many writers who write in every niche.

Pubby Question: I am signing up and completing my account info. Pubby offers me 3 options for my reader type. 1. Standard: All readers can review your book using a free copy that you provide to read. 2. Kindle Unlimited: Readers with a Kindle Unlimited subscription can review your book. Your readers will read your book using Kindle Unlimited. 3. Verified Purchases: Readers who agree to purchase your book on Amazon.com can review your book. Your readers will read your book using Kindle.

The 3rd option requires me to pay a fee. I don't mind paying, it is small and they say a one time fee. I was just wondering if most choose this option? I searched the training module video provided and it does not address my question. Thank you.

Morning...This is not a question to share on the call but I just noticed this and was not sure where to send so I figure I'd start here.

I believe the question form page has a spelling error. It says to "Please submit your question below, one at a time. (Please keep the question brief, 500 characters or less, so it will fit on the presentation sides.)"

I think that should say slides at the end not sides???

How do I add a Pexel background to my FaceBook Promotion that I created on the DIY Book Covers website? I have downloaded that and the background. How do I add them together?

Liuba

Hi! Please give me your feedback on a book cover. My biggest concern is that it's too feminine while the book is for both genders... Thanks
